Middlebury Refuses Future War Support

Liberal Club Ballot Shows Majority Favoring Peace Except in Case of Defense

Refusal on the part of a large number of Middlebury students to participate in any war except in case the mainland of the United States is invaded was indicated as a result of the poll conducted by the liberal club last week.

A total of 435 students participated in the poll, representing two-thirds of the student body. Of these 116 men and 171 women favored the proposal which restricts participation to the actual resistance of invasion. This was the pledge being circulated by the Brown Daily Herald.

Another option offered was the pledge never to participate in any war, of whatever origin or nature. This was signed by forty-two men and thirty-six women. This was the equivalent of the question voted on recently at Oxford and other English universities.

As a check for statistical comparison, a third choice was provided which pledged the signers to participate in any war declared by congress and approved by the president. Twelve Middlebury women and fifty-eight men signed in this column.

Officers of the club for next year will be elected at a special meeting which will be called in the near future.

Junior Week Costs To Meet Reduction

Completed Plans Show All Admission Prices Will Be Less Than Former Years

Plans for the 1934 junior week, completed by Louis M. Baumgartner, chairman of the executive committee, show a reduction in price for every feature of the week's program, to be held next week from Thursday through Sunday.

The prom Friday evening has been reduced from six dollars to five; a system of uniform Dutch dates is being used; and semi-formal attire will be permitted. Kay Kyser's eleven piece orchestra, direct from the New Kenmore hotel in Albany, will play for the dance from 9 until 2.

Thursday night the interfraternity stunt show will be presented, with the admission price cut from fifty cents to forty. Instead of the pan-hellenic variety show Friday morning at twenty-five cents, "Middlebury Memorabilia" will be shown at the playhouse with a charge of ten cents.

There will be several additional activities presented this year, at no further cost to attendants. Friday afternoon the interfraternity track meet will be held on Porter field. Baseball and tennis matches with the University of Vermont, Norwich university, Boston university and St. Michael's college, will take place during the holiday. A concert will be given by the college band Sunday at 7:30 p. m. and the interfraternity sing is also scheduled for that evening.

Tickets for the prom are now on sale and may be secured through any of the fraternity representatives. Baumgartner and Margaret T. Smith have general charge of the Dutch date arrangements.

Mrs. Wheat to Give Next Vocational Talk Friday

Mrs. Virginia M. Wheat, director of the New York school of secretaries, will give the second in a series of vocational talks for women in Pearsons social hall Friday afternoon at 4:15.

Mrs. Wheat has been giving advice over the radio concerning diversified opportunities for women, and is planning a conference of college seniors on vocational problems in New York, May 13. The meetings here will be for the benefit of those unable to attend this conference.

Next Wednesday afternoon at 4:30, Miss Florence Maddock, of Burlington, Vermont, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will speak on the vocational fields open to women at a meeting in Pearsons social hall.

Mrs. Harriet S. Potter gave the opening talk in the series Monday afternoon, when she discussed library work.

These talks are being given under the auspices of Mortar Board, in cooperation with the dean.

Women Debaters Win Over U.V.M.

Middlebury Speakers Deny Question Resolved, That Democracy is a Failure

The Middlebury women's debating team won a 3-0 decision over the University of Vermont in a debate held in the Fleming museum in Burlington Saturday. The question was, resolved, that democracy is a failure.

The Middlebury speakers, who had the negative of the question were Janet E. Stainton '33, Dorothy Canfield '35, and Catherine A. Lippincott '36. Vermont, upholding the affirmative, was represented by Sophie Levin, Virginia Goodenough, and Laura Johnson.

A democracy was defined by the affirmative as that type of society in which the ultimate control lies in the hands of the people. This government, they held, does not recognize that the masses are not mentally equipped and are little able to control their own destinies. The affirmative believed the present American crisis to be due partly to the democratic system, under which no efficient leaders can be elected. They asserted that a democracy is unsound in theory because human nature is biologically unequal, men are easily swayed by propaganda, and there is too much chance for corruption. In the spoils system and the amount of propaganda used, a democracy defeats its own purpose. They maintained also that the right to legislate and appeal might be found in other types of government as well.

Middlebury stated that the greatest benefits of a democracy were equality of representation and the right to elect leaders. Its success depends on how much the people care about it. The negative also pointed out that the cor-

Nominations are Made for Undergraduate President

The nominating committee of the undergraduate association has chosen three men from the junior class as candidates for president of the organization. They are Charles N. DuBois, Douglas L. Jocelyn and Norman L. Melbye.

Although the nominations have been made now, the election will not take place until shortly after junior week. The exact time will be set at a later date.

All men of the undergraduate body are eligible to participate in this election. The nominating committee consists of one member from each of the fraternities and the neutral body. George E. Yeomans '33, president this year, acts as chairman.

The remaining officers of the association will be elected by the student council from its own membership in the fall.

Junior Play To Be Given Next Week

"Fashion" Will Be Presented By Dramatic Department Tuesday and Wednesday

"Fashion", the five act comedy revival by Anna May Mowatt, will be produced by the dramatic department Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, May 9 and 10, as a part of the junior week program. The play is also scheduled for another presentation during senior week.

Regular rehearsals for the drama have been held for the past two weeks. Thirteen are in the cast which is as follows:

Trueman ----------Eugene G. Hoyt '34
Count ----------Edward Yerovitz '33
Howard ----------Lothrop M. Willis '35
Tiffany --------Frederick W. Brink '33
Twinkle ---------Lewis G. Allbee '36
Fogg ----------Francis B. Sprague '34
Snobson -------James C. Judge Jr. '33
Zeke ----------Don S. Gates '36
Mrs. Tiffany -----Barbara L. Lyons '36
Prudence ---------Barbara L. West '34
Millinette ----Gladys E. Mountford '33
Gertrude ----------Patricia Willcox '36
Seraphina ------Frances E. Sargent '34

The first production of "Fashion" was given about the middle of the last century. Society life in the city of New York at that period is its subject. The rise of the Tiffany family in the social world is shown, with the part fashion plays in such a rise.

Particular attention is being paid, in the staging of the play here, that the costumes and stage design, as well as the manner of acting, reproduce as nearly as possible the mode of the stage existing at the time the play was first produced. Both performances will feature songs from the period to be sung by members of the cast between the acts.

Samuel Board Here for Conferences This Week

Mr. Saumel S. Board, director of the Yale graduate placement bureau will be at Middlebury Thursday and Friday of this week.

The appointments for the conferences are given preferably to the seniors but if by Thursday morning Mr. Board has any free periods they may be taken by members of the other classes. Appointments are to be made at the office of Mr. Wiley.

The vocational advisor will give advice on various problems of graduate study, professions and occupations. Mr. Board's return was secured because there were so many applications for conferences with him when he was here in January that all could not be filled.

Since Mr. Board was at Middlebury he has been giving conferences three days a week for undergraduates at Yale. Because of his wide experience he has been found to be well adapted to advise college undergraduates.

Panther Trackmen Win Over Williams By Score Of 75-60

Coach Brown Secures First Defeat of Alma Mater After Six Years

MACLEAN AND HOXIE SCORE TWO FIRSTS

Middlebury Strong in Races With Purple Superior In Field Events

Coach Brown of the Middlebury track team realized one of his chief ambitions Saturday afternoon when his well-balanced aggregation defeated Williams, 75-60, at Williamstown. After trying vainly for six years to gain a victory on the cinders over his alma mater, Coach Brown found the number seven to be lucky in bringing to the Blue and White its initial triumph over the Purple.

The meet was keenly contested, and some fine performances were turned in during its course. A splendid, balmy spring day, warmed by a welcome sun, made conditions ideal, save for a rather slow track which had not yet recovered from the rigors of the winter snows.

The Panther victory was accomplished without any individual dominating the meet. Hoxie and MacLean shared the Middlebury scoring honors with ten points apiece, each gaining a pair of first places. One of the tributes to the balance of the team's strength was that the Blue and White won despite the fact that Captain Brown, who is usually capable of scoring close to twenty points, was so badly handicapped by his foot injury that he could score but one point with a third in the broad jump.

MacLean, who won both the high and low hurdles, was the only Panther to set a new record. In winning the highs, he lowered the standard to 15.5 seconds from 15.8, a fine performance on the indifferent track.

By winning the 440 and the 880, both in fast time, Hoxie made an auspicious

Kaleidoscope To Be Ready Junior Week

Black and Silver Motif Used In Art Work; Modernistic Designs Will Be Featured

Announcement of the exact date of delivery of the 1934 Kaleidoscope will be made as soon as it is known definitely, according to Thomas R. Noonan, editor. The annual is expected to be ready for distribution early in junior week.

The cover selected by the board and manufactured by the S. K. Smith company carries out the motif of black and silver that is used in the art work throughout the book. The designs are conservatively modernistic, and were completed by the art editors, Reynold H. Suss and Marian Bugbee, assisted by sophomore tryouts.

Another feature of the yearbook is the individual pictures of members of the football, basketball and hockey teams. One section will be devoted to informal photographs of events in the college year. Group pictures were taken on the stage of the gymnasium and it is felt that better lighting produced very satisfactory results.

An intensive drive for subscriptions conducted by Clifford F. McLure and Mary K. Carrick, circulation managers, has brought encouraging results. Collection of advertising accounts is already under way.

A GENERAL ELECTION DAY

Ever since the institution of college elections to class and society offices was invented as a regular feature of undergraduate life, it has been attended by several outstanding difficulties. As long as offices are filled under the present system, certain evils will continue to exist. We propose as a remedy for most of these, the adoption of a general election day for Middlebury.

At present the procedure of election is unnecessarily involved and irregular. The time when meetings are called prevents many from attending either by closely following the meal hour or occurring as an interruption in the middle of the evening. After an interminable period of waiting for the last stragglers to appear, the group, if it is fortunate, is called to order and the business of voting begins. More frequently the meeting is disbanded; postponed because the required quorum fails to materialize. There are probably enough aggregate hours wasted during a normal college year in this odd pastime to carry a senior class through a comprehensive examination reading period, if properly utilized.

In addition to the ever present difficulty of securing a quorum, the disorganized system of elections now in operation lacks all semblance of unity. Class officers, if they are to be more than mere honorary figureheads, deserve sufficient time to lay plans for their active careers. When they are chosen after the year has begun, even early in the fall, this opportunity is minimized. Campus offices are filled at irregular intervals throughout the whole college year.

The trend toward electing individuals in the spring, to hold office during the following year is indicated at present in such organizations as undergraduate association, student government, and several honorary clubs and societies. The plan we advocate would bring these advantages to every group on this campus, all on a single day.

The popular election day system has been successfully instituted at many American colleges in the east, in New England, and in the south. Outlined briefly, the local adaptation would operate in the following manner. A day would be set aside in May, soon after junior week. As an arbitrary suggestion for this spring, it might well be Monday, May 22. All voting would take place in the gymnasium. The polls would remain for a morning and afternoon period of two to three hours each. Comprehensive ballot forms, similar to the Australian style used in national and state elections, would be distributed, with sections reserved for eligible voters in each organization, who would check in their claims when they receive the ballot.

The committee plan for nominating to office, developed this year for the first time, would further contribute to the success of the system, additional names to be added by the voter, instead of awaiting the elusive quorum.

This polling would obviously require supervision. For this we recommend the junior and senior members of Waubanakee, as a duty worthy of their prestige. This would provide perhaps a dozen responsible upperclass men for the details of ballot handling.

With polls open over a considerable portion of the day, no quorum would be necessary in any organization, and no prospective voter would be denied his right because of inconvenient time requirements.

Voting either by roll-call or signed ballot has often been suggested as an efficient corrective for political "fixing" of student elections. This could easily be incorporated in the system we advocate.

Finally, with every elective office in Middlebury College filled on one day, in preparation for the following year (with the natural exception of the incoming freshman class), the actual organization and effectiveness of each group would tend to improve materially.

We have outlined what we believe to be the outstanding advantages of the general election day. The adoption of this system may have as a primary step the expression of a majority student opinion in its support. This can be achieved tomorrow, when the CAMPUS questionnaire, with one query dealing specifically with this subject, is circulated. We solicit careful thought on this problem and a resulting vote that represents the entire student body.

Poking About

Middlebury started as an academy in the Addison County Grammar School building, a wooden structure built from contributions made by the people of Middlebury. Jeremiah Atwater was principal of both academy and grammar school. The academy had been established to provide a place of higher learning in Vermont so that Middlebury citizens would not be obliged to send their sons to colleges as far away as Yale or Harvard. Although chartered, the University of Vermont was not yet receiving students.

On the last day of October in 1798, Gamaliel Painter, Daniel Chipman, Jeremiah Atwater, Seth Storrs, and others on the board of trustees for the grammar school petitioned the legislature for a charter for the establishment of a college in the old school building. After a great deal of discussion, the legislature, being fortunately a scholarly group of gentlemen, granted the charter, and four days after that, on November 5, 1800, seven students were admitted. The first graduate was Aaron Petty of the class of 1802, who had the misfortune to be ill on the day of his graduation. Until 1812 the classes steadily grew in enrollment, and in 1810 a petition was made to the legislature for aid in erecting a new building. Five years before, the institution had been moved to the building erected for the female seminary, which was dissolved at the death of Miss Strong.

The officers of the college in 1810 were a president, professor of mathematics and natural philosophy, professor of law, professor of languages, tutor, and librarian, treasurer, secretary, and inspector of buildings. There was no dog-catcher. The library contained one thousand volumes!

There was no chemical apparatus at that time, but the natural philosophy department was well equipped largely through the aid of individuals interested in the growth of the college. The entire scientific equipment included an air pump, an electrical machine, two artificial globes, a large and small telescope, a galvanic pile, a camera lucidee, hydrostatic apparatus, two thermometers, a prism and mirrors, a theodolite, and a quadrant, besides a few smaller instruments. When, as sometimes happened, a professor had no students for a semester, he was retained as a senior tutor, until interest in his course should revive.

The legislature finally decided in 1812 that aid from the state could not be given to the corporation to further the preparations already made for the new dormitory and office building. Undaunted, the people of Middlebury again drew from their own pockets the funds necessary, and Seth Storrs deeded the land to the corporation. Thus, Painter hall was finished in 1815, and Old Chapel and Starr hall were erected some years later. The stone for the buildings was probably quarried from the native rock near college park. A great deal of the actual building was done by the officers of the corporation when the funds were low. There is evidence of the passing of time in the synclines on the worn stone steps of the buildings of Old Stone Row.

Although the tuition fees at that time were to us amazingly small, the students had as hard a time to make their way as we have in this time of economic change. They had to do farm work betimes, and rise with the birds, in order to have time to walk one or two miles to breakfast and reach chapel on time.

Altogether, the history of the college has been one of struggle and perseverence led on by the vision of the men who founded it.

Shreds and Patches

Buy a bag of pretzels and go to the end of the beer line. Our chemistry department claims that 3.2 is not a drink but a food. Are you hungry, folks? According to the New York Times the consumption of milk has gone up twenty-five per cent since beer came in. Evidently, it's so weak they're spiking it with milk.

'Tis said that a bachelor is a man of obstinacy entirely surrounded by suspicion who doesn't make the same mistake once. However the hardware collecting season is in full swing, there's a grand moon coming in, and many strong men have weakened.

It seemed a bit ironical to see the golf team start for Williamstown in the middle of a snow storm a few days ago. But - - that's Middlebury. We suggest a college uniform consisting of a straw hat, hip boots, a coonskin coat, and a snow shovel to be worn whenever the student is within twenty miles of Midd in order that we may gain the reputation of being prepared for any sort of weather.

What junior got bounced off the back porch of what dorm last week while his girl friend was told a back porch was no place to entertain? Maybe not, but six hundred and fifty college students can't be wrong.

Possibly you havn't heard about pandemonium breaking lose at a Bat Cot supper when a member of the Dill football team removed her skirt under the table because somebody spilled a fruit juice cocktail on her. She passed it down beneath the table to the other end where it was hung out the window to dry. The interesting part of the situation was that when it was time to leave the table, the skirt still dangled out the window. 'Nuff sed.

Three different times we've seen a co-ed wheeling a baby carriage down town. That fact is all right in itself, but the way she bumps that kid down off curb stones is enough to give it fallen arches for the rest of its life. And we wonder what the baby would say about girls who take shower baths, between circus skits, without going completely native.

We have been told by a freshman that one of the interesting experiences of college comes when you and the girl are seated beneath a tree, gazing off into space, thinking you are alone, and there is the sudden snap of a branch breaking above and a twelve year old brat lands on the ground in front of you, bounces to his feet and scurries for cover while you try to figure it all out. Tarzan must have grown up like that.

Undoubtedly a goodly number of the men's college have had the experience of hearing questionable remarks from some of the juveniles around town, usually while in the company of someone from the other side of the hill. It seems to us that if you lads would distribute a few swats up against a few ears, several of those foul mouthed little tramps would learn to keep their mouth shut. And this would undoubtedly be appreciated by the other side of the hill. What do you say?

What professor has such an imagination and so dislikes the smell of furniture polish that he let a new and unopened bottle of polish drive him from his warm bed to one in another room because he imagined he could smell the polish? Sh-h!

According to popular vote, the "Lamb's Club Entertainment", a short subject at the local Roxie's is rewarded the longest and loudest razzberry of practically anything hitherto screened. And then there was the senior (we're tired of riding the freshmen) who waited out back of the theatre for the chorus girls in "The Kid from Spain".

The youthful business man whose ad in the CAMPUS last fall announced bicycles for rent has gone out of business and is staring bankruptcy in the face. In an exclusive interview he made the following statement: "I get the bikes from other kids and we split the money. But the bikes are all busted. You can't make any money that way."

COMMUNICATIONS

To the Editor of the CAMPUS:

I was interested in reading Mr. Woodfall's communication in last week's issue of the CAMPUS concerning the Liberal Club. As retiring president of the Club, I wish to thank him for the straightforward manner in which he has expressed his convictions. I believe that he has put in writing a feeling that may be widespread on the campus. May I point out to Mr. Woodfall several points in which he either has been misinformed or has attached the wrong significance to certain facts.

The Liberal Club is completing its first year as a recognized organization and its officers and members in their efforts to make it function most effectively are running into the difficulties attendant with the introduction of any movement of its kind.

May I point out the purpose of the Liberal Club and the policy it has tried to pursue. The Liberal Club is an organizing body set up to present and make necessary arrangements for a series of activities for participation by all students. Election to membership is based chiefly on the applicant's sustained interest in current affairs. Its present membership is between thirty and forty and we fail to see that an increase over this number would cause an increase in the Club's effectiveness to function along the lines mentioned previously. If a student is actively interested in the work of the Club, he will participate whether he is a member of the organization or not.

As a matter of fact, all meetings this past year other than those to act upon business matters have been open to student participation and have been definitely announced as such. Our failure to create a greater interest and to be of more service to the college is due to the officers' lack of experience and to the fact that we are "breaking new ground". It certainly is not the result of any

Progress In China Subject At Vespers

Reconstruction Movement Is Served by Christianity Says Missionary Speaker

The Rev. Leonard M. Outerbridge spoke on the transformation which the Christian religion has brought about in China, at vespers Sunday.

The speaker said that the northwest region of China has passed through thirty-seven centuries of recurring famine. This is due to the extreme dryness of the westerly winds which must pass five thousand miles over Europe and the Gobi desert, where all the moisture is absorbed.

Foreign countries have sent trained men to China to work on a program of research. In this work they have studied the soil, climatic conditions and rainfall, and have introduced scientific methods of agriculture. These methods have proved of little avail because the main pestilence, the drought, can in no way be controlled, nor can the blame be laid to any single cause.

"The task of relief in the provinces of Chientze and Chiantze was insurmountable," continued the speaker. "The people were thousands of miles removed from civilization, and they had no means of modern communication. It would take three months to send three hundred tons of millet to the aid of three hundred people, and this supply would last only one month."

"America," said the Rev. Mr. Outerbridge, "in her years of prosperity sent only $200,000 out of her abundance to help those ruined by the Yangtze flood, whereas the Chinese contracted an obligation of $90,000,000." She had forgotten the debt she owed China, for from that district she had extracted a special kind of wheat, upon which she capitalized. This is a food greatly superior to the corn, millet and indigestible sorgham on which the Chinese exist.

The Chinese farmers knew nothing of the seeds and soils needful for the growth of grain and Americans did not impart this knowledge. "She sent them a porridge bowl, but did not tell them how she filled her own," said the speaker.

The indirect result of starvation was the demoralization of Chinese family life, the only ethical responsibility they had been taught. Parents were forced to sell their daughters in public markets. In the famine of 1927, however, a great deal of work was done by the Red Cross, which built 150 miles of road for quicker transportation.

Through missionaries, both foreign and native, the reconstruction of China has been going on constantly, quietly and efficiently. There has been, beneath the surface of Chinese life, a tremendous social, political, economic and religious revolution which we cannot begin to understand.

Hitherto the functions of Chinese women had been to amuse men, bear their children and bear their burdens. They had been slaves to their fathers, husbands and sons, bound mentally and spiritually, just as their feet were bound.

The Christian outlook has changed the Chinese attitude towards women and children. Women now have civic equality with men. Boys and girls go to school together, work together, and enjoy the same privileges. "The Christian movement has taught the Chinese to think of the other fellow, for the first time in centuries," concluded the Rev. Mr. Outerbridge.

Something to Say

—not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click . . . I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—"They're mild and yet they satisfy."

Panthers Lose To Vermont Nine, 4-0

Four Runs in the Opening Inning Give Catamounts Victory in Series Contest

Behind the masterful pitching of Layden, U. V. M. shut out the Middlebury baseball nine at Burlington Saturday 4-0. Allowing only three hits, Layden held the Blue and White in check at all times, with the outcome never in doubt.

All the runs were scored in the first inning with the help of some wretched fielding on the part of the Panthers, Vermont scoring four runs on four hits and two errors. After that the game developed into a fine pitching duel between Layden and Stefaniak. The former allowed three hits, one in the fifth, one in the eighth and the last in the ninth. Stefaniak held the Vermont batsmen in check after the first inning, giving them only five scattered hits for the rest of the game.

Middlebury went out in order in their half of the first, but Burns led off for Vermont with a single to right. Palmer popped to Hoehn but Taft reached first and Burns second on an error by Zawistoski. McKay then tripled to deep right, scoring Burns and Taft, but in trying to stretch it to a home run he was out at the plate, Barker to Hoehn to Hartrey. Ramar then reached first when Hoehn dropped Sorensen's throw at the bag. Layden then doubled to left, scoring Ramar, and he reached third when Yeomans dropped the throw from left field. Macomber followed with a single to score Layden with the last run, Bowers popping to Sorensen to end the inning.

Middlebury went out in order the first four innings with the exception of Guild, who reached first on an error by Layden. Zawistoski made the first Middlebury bingle when he beat out a hit to deep short in the fifth inning.

Vermont threatened to score in the eighth when Ramar and Layden led off with singles, putting men on first and third, Layden taking second when Hoehn let his liner get away from him. Stefaniak then bore down and forced Macomber to hit to the box, both runners holding their bags. Bowers popped to Zawistoski and Sorensen threw out Garrett at first base to end the trouble.

Burns and Layden with a single and a double apiece and Macomber with two singles were the batting stars for U. V. M., while Zawistoski with two singles was the only Middlebury man who could do anything with Layden's slants.

Intramural Baseball

Alpha Sigma Phi advanced to the finals in intramural baseball while Chi Psi and Delta Kappa Epsilon are scheduled to meet in a semi-final tilt today by virtue of wins over Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Upsilon and Beta Kappa respectively. In a first round contest, Kappa Delta Rho defeated the Neutrals but lost the following day to Alpha Sigma Phi.

KDR 7 - Neutrals 6

Starting with four runs in the first inning KDR piled up a lead which was never seriously threatened until the sixth inning when the Neutrals picked up two counters to tie the score at six all. White's hit in the seventh scored the deciding run of the game.

Score by innings:	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	T
KDR	4	0	2	0	0	0	1	7
Neutrals	3	0	0	1	2	0	0	6

Batteries: Hoyle and Brown; Hand, Gove and Davis. Umpires: Bowker and Wissler.

ASP 7 - KDR 4

Alpha Sigma Phi scored its second victory in the intramural league by defeating KDR 7-4 in a second round game. Three runs in the first stanza and three more counters in the second inning were sufficient to put the game on ice and from that time on, the resulting decision was never in doubt. The losers' only threat came in the second inning when they pounded Bona for four hits and pushed in four runs.

Score by innings:	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	T
ASP	3	3	0	0	0	0	1	7
KDR	0	4	0	0	0	0	0	4

Batteries: Bona and Benson; Hoyle and Brown. Umpires: Bowker and Wissler.

CP 11 - DU 2

Chi Psi defeated Delta Upsilon 11-2 in a second round match to advance to the semi-finals. With Reid pitching an excellent game and the infield clicking, the winners had little difficulty in subduing their victims by keeping the hits scattered. Caron starred for the winners with four hits in four trips to bat.

Score by innings:	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	T
Chi Psi	1	3	1	2	3	1	x	11
Delta Upsilon	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	2

Batteries: Reid and Scozzafava; J. Roberts and Newman. Umpires: Bowker and Wissler.

ASP 15 - SPE 8

Alpha Sigma Phi advanced to the finals by defeating Sigma Phi Epsilon 15-8 yesterday. Nicking Springstead for twelve hits, and taking advantage of the large number of errors, the Alpha Sigs had little trouble in piling up the score in the last two frames. Meacham with three hits in four times at bat was outstanding for the victors.

Score by innings:	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	T
Alpha Sigma Phi	0	0	2	6	0	3	4	15
Sigma Phi Epsilon	0	2	1	4	0	1	0	8

Batteries: Bona, Meacham and Benson, Bona; Springstead and DeVries. Umpires: Bowker and Wissler.

Sophomores and Juniors Winners in Hockey Series

The sophomore women's hockey team defeated the freshmen by a score of 3-1 Monday afternoon. Grace E. Bates scored all three goals for the sophomores and Ruth G. McNulty made the only tally for the losing team.

The seniors were defeated by the junior hockey team by a 3-1 score yesterday afternoon. Margaret T. Smith made all three scores for the juniors during the first half while Elizabeth Spencer scored the only goal for the losing team during the second period.

These games are a part of the championship series which was postponed last fall. At that time the juniors and seniors were tied for lead.

Track Meet To Be Held Here Saturday

Panthers Are to Oppose the Montreal A. A. A. in Their Opening Home Encounter

With a satisfactory victory in the opening meet of the season, the Middlebury varsity track team is concentrating in practice for the first home meet this Saturday, when the Montreal amateur athletic association invades Porter field at 1:30 p. m.

Last year the Montreal meet resulted in a sweeping victory for the Blue and White, but indications for the coming encounter promise a much closer final score. The Canadians again present greater strength in the races than in field events as was the case before.

Simpson, Montreal mile ace, brings the experience and ability of Olympic trial competition from last summer, and should challenge the best efforts of Short and Seymour who triumphed for Middlebury at Williamstown. Wilkens is a veteran two miler, a consistent winner during the past season who is a worthy threat from across the border. Sears, Cushman and White, Blue runners, walked off with this event last Saturday. Wade of Montreal will be seen in action in the half-mile course, pitted against Hoxie, Forbush and Hunter.

Though the Middlebury high hurdles record fell at Williamstown last Saturday, MacLean, winner in both hurdles races, will met keener competition in Horn and Worral, the latter being efficient in the high jump.

Time trials for the Panther squad are being held this week to determine the exact personnel who will oppose the Canadians. Prevailing good weather conditions should develop a satisfactory track, and Saturday afternoon promises to be the scene of good performances.

Varsity Tennis Team Will Oppose R. P. I. and Union

The varsity tennis squad journeys to Troy Friday to play their first match of the year with R. P. I. On the following day, Saturday, they will encounter Union at Schenectady.

The team has been practicing since spring vacation with seventeen players battling for regular positions. The new asphalt courts aided the team greatly by increasing the period for training and the Blue and White netmen are in good condition for their first encounter.

Who will play first position has not yet been determined, it being a choice between Captain Richard Allen or Allen Flagg. Arnold LaForce will play third, Kenneth Rudd fourth, William Volkmar fifth, and Horace Loomis sixth.

Golf Team to Meet Union In Home Match Saturday

The varsity golf team will play its second match of the season Saturday with Union college on the Middlebury links. Although at best the local course will be in only fair shape, chances for a win seem quite favorable.

While little is known about the Union team, they should be rated at least on a par with Middlebury. Last year the match resulted in a 3-3 tie. Middlebury lost the first match of the year to Amherst by a 4-2 score.

As in the Amherst match, Captain Riccio will play first position and Pickens second position for the Middlebury outfit. The third and fourth positions will be picked before Saturday from the results of practice matches. The individual and foursome system of play will be used.

Intramural Tennis League Will Start Matches Soon

The intramural tennis league will get under way next week with eight teams in the competition. With the clay courts now open there will be a much better opportunity of running off the matches than there has been up to this time.

According to the pairings posted Tuesday, the following teams will meet in first round matches. CP and KDR, Neutrals and SPE, DU and ASP, BK and DKE.

MIDDLEBURY WINS MEET AT WILLIAMS

debut in intercollegiate competition. The combination of the two strenuous races is an extremely trying one. In the quarter he was off in the lead with the gun, and was never headed, winning in the good figures of 51.7. Coming back later in the meet, he won as he pleased in the half, finishing strongly in 2:03.6.

As expected, Miller of Williams had little trouble taking both sprints, but Middlebury fared well in the dashes with Cady and Jocelyn capturing second and third, respectively, in the century, and Montgomery taking second in the furlong.

The performances of Cady were outstanding for the Blue and White. The slim sophomore surprised with a first in the broad jump, and showed marked improvement over his sprinting of last year in racing to a second in the 100.

As has been the case in recent years against Williams, Middlebury had the better of the running events, but the Purple was not as dominating in the field events as it has been before. The Panthers swept the two mile run, Sears, Cushman, and White finishing in that order, and in the mile Short and Seymour took the first two places.

Williams scored two sweeps, in the shot put and high jump. In the pole vault MacKenzie scored a creditable tie for first with a vault of 11 feet 6 inches. MacKenzie seems headed for a college record in the vault, although he failed in an attempt to raise it over its present mark of 11 ft. 8 in.

The victory scored by Watson in the hammer was made more noteworthy by the fact that he competed after taking a bandage off his badly cut fingers for the first time since they were injured a week before.

The summaries:

120 yard high hurdles: won by MacLean (M); Roberts (M) second; Winkhaus (W), third. Time, 15.5. (New college record).

Mile run: won by Short (M); Seymour (M), second; McVeight (W), third. Time, 4:40.

440 yard dash: won by Hoxie (M); Boehm (M), second; Howard (W), third. Time, 51.7.

100 yard dash: won by Miller (W); Cady (M), second; Jocelyn (M), third. Time, 10.2.

220 yard dash: won by Miller (W); Montgomery (M), second; May (W), third. Time, 22.7.

220 yard low hurdles: won by MacLean (M); Winkhaus (W), second; Roberts (M), third. Time, 27.1.

880 yard run: won by Hoxie (M); Forbush (M), second; Hunter (M), third. Time 2:03.6.

Two mile run: won by Sears (M); Cushman (M), second; White (M), third. Time, 10:31.3.

High jump: Tie for first among Urner, Angel, and Flint (all W) Height, 5 ft. 6 in.

Pole vault: Tie for first between MacKenzie (M) and Flint (W); Mayer (W), third. Height, 11 feet, 6 inches.

Broad jump: won by Cady (M); Flint (W), second; Brown (M), third. Distance, 21 feet, 5 inches.

Annual Tennis Tournament For Women Starts Today

Thirty-nine have signed up for the annual women's tennis tournament which started today.

This is the largest number that have ever participated in the event, according to Zavart Markarian '33, head of tennis, who has permanent possession of the cup awarded previously by virtue of three consecutive championships.

The competition is being arranged so that senior women will not be scheduled to play during the week of the comprehensive examinations.

A new cup has been purchased and is now on display at the Chateau. It will be awarded to the champion player of the series.

Baseball Team Will Open Home Season

Nine to Meet Springfield at Porter Field Friday and St. Mike's Away Monday

The varsity baseball team will make its home debut against Springfield Friday afternoon and will journey to Winooski Monday to meet St. Michael's in a state series game.

The Blue and White should have an opportunity to break into the win column again in the game with Springfield. The Y. M. C. A. team has had a rather mediocre season to date. They defeated Ohio State 14-1 for their lone victory. They were defeated by Lowell Tech by a 5-3 score, by C. C. N. Y. by a 7-5 count, and by Yale by a score of 8-4. The game Friday should provide plenty of excitement with both nines anxious to hit their stride again.

St. Michael's has secured an even break in the two games played this season. The Purple lost its season opener to St. Lawrence by a 7-1 score. The Vermont team then came back to win a 2-1 pitcher's battle from Clarkson at Potsdam. Capt. Colville is the ace of the pitching staff and will probably get the assignment against the Middmen. He allowed the Clarkson nine only four scattered hits. Miles and Ruggerio have been hitting consistently for St. Mike's and will be the chief threats in the coming contest.

Varsity Golf Team Loses To Amherst by 4-2 Score

Middlebury lost its first golf match of the season to Amherst college last Wednesday at Amherst, Mass., by a 4-2 count. The matches were played off at the Old Orchard country club on a wet but fair-conditioned course. The individual and foursome system of play was used.

Both teams showed a lack of practice, Middlebury being particularly handicapped in this respect. While as a whole all scores were high, Captain Riccio of Middlebury brought in the day's low score of 77.

Individual:

Riccio (M) Cap. defeated McCoy (A) Cap. 3 and 2.

Pomeroy (A) defeated Pickens (M), 1 up.

Long (A) defeated Leete (M), 5 and 4.

Blight (A' defeated Olson (M), 3 and 1.

Foursomes:

Riccio and Pickens (M) defeated McCoy and Pomeroy (A), 3 and 1.

Long and Blight (A) defeated Leete and Olson (M), 3 and 1.

Two Middlebury professors who have been on sabbatical leave for the past year will return to teaching duties in the fall. They are Prof. Raymond L. Barney, of the biology department, and Prof. Everett Skillings, of the German department.

Professor Barney has spent the year in advanced study at Loyola university in New Orleans, while Professor Skillings has been traveling extensively in Germany during the period allowed him. Neither expect to return to Middlebury until fall.

Prof. MacDonald Fulton, who has been filling the vacancy in the biology department caused by Professor Barney's absence has not been reengaged. Neither Professor Fulton or Mr. Tiller have announced their plans for next year.

Miss Marjory Johnson, instructor in home economics, who has been granted a leave of absence for the second semester, will also return to Middlebury in the fall.

efforts on our part to make it an exclusive organization attainable only by prominent students in the social sciences. As a proof that interest is of prime importance in the selection of members, an examination of the Club's membership will show several students who have taken few if any courses in economics, philosophy, political science or sociology.

The founders of the Liberal Club realized that the number of extra-curricular activities on the campus was already too large but at the same time were convinced that an organization such as they had in mind could be an active force in arousing the American student's latent interest in social problems. We also realize that by many the Liberal Club will be regarded as an honor society, as another activity to be put under their pictures in the Kaleidoscope. We have tried and will continue to try to keep such men from membership.

I wish to state for the rest of the members of the Club that we welcome all constructive criticisms and suggestions. Let us know what you think would be of interest to the student body as a group; if possible, plans will be worked out for its presentation. We do feel that a limited membership body to assume responsibility of such matters as making arrangements with outside speakers, financing, advertising and so forth is necessary to carry out the purposes of the Liberal Club in the most effective manner.

RICHARD L. ALLEN '33.

To the Editor of the CAMPUS:

With the class of '33, Middlebury is instituting the new principle of compulsory comprehensive examinations. Heretofore, seniors majoring in either the English or French departments were subject to the comprehensive. However, failure to succeed in this comprehensive was not accompanied by the loss of a diploma.

With the new system, the seniors have been accorded a "reading week" in which to prepare for the examination. Unfortunately, the "reading week" appears to be a gesture on the part of the administration to excuse a week of "cutting" of classes by the seniors. What other advantage is to be gained by the seniors? They are to be responsible, in all courses except those in the department in which they are majoring and those few classes composed of 80% seniors, for all assignments and incidental work, with the exception of classroom work. This means, almost literally, that they are receiving very little benefit from the "reading week".

It seems to be the prevailing opinion of the professors that the seniors are capable of making up the work of the reading week and of the half week of comprehensive examinations, in the three days following the termination of this period. The individual professors should not be criticised too blatantly; they seem to be at a loss for information relative to reading week and the manner of conducting their courses during that time.

Whatever noble intentions were responsible for the origin of "reading week", they are in danger of never materializing unless more definite arrangements are speedily made. After a nerve-racking week of concentrated study, followed by three days of examinations which must be passed, it is supremely inconsiderate to expect the seniors to prepare the work of a week and a half, in addition to reviewing the year's work, for final examinations in those courses not included in the department of the student's major.

In commencing any new system, we realize that perfection cannot be attained at the outset; the professors actively interested in the comprehensives have undertaken additional work in order to help the seniors. Bearing all this in mind, we still request that "reading week" be given an opportunity to become more than a dignified name for a week of excused cuts (chapel not included!).

Harvard students published in a bogus edition of the college paper recently that the president of the university had been fired and that some nonentity had been appointed in his place. A Boston paper published the fact before the prank was discovered.

ruption exists in the working out of the system, and is not inherent in the system itself. The greatest percentage of countries in the world today are democracies, including the countries of Europe established after the war. This type of government gives religious and political freedom and universal sufferage, they said.

Those who served as judges were the Rev. Mr. Meyers of the Unitarian church in Burlington, William Lockwood, and Henry Macomber. Professor Dean of the English department of the University of Vermont acted as chairman.

College Ensemble Broadcasts Over Station WDEV in Middlebury Hour

The Middlebury College ensemble, conducted by Allyn B. White '33, broadcast a program of light classical music during the Middlebury hour over station WDEV, Thursday, April 27, between 4 and 5 p. m.

Some time in the near future the ensemble will give an hour program of purely orchestral music over station WCAX, the Burlington Daily News station.

White said in reference to the ensemble, "The only aim of the student orchestra is for the pleasure of the player, rather than the finished production."

The publication at Massachusetts state college recently printed the poem of the year, "Ode to America". The epic is:
